Core rule: No personal benefit, no off-the-books money, no improvising. When in doubt—escalate.

1. Stewardship Principles

FBL financial stewardship requires transparency, accountability, and strict separation from personal benefit. All funds and spending must align with FBL's mission and nonprofit compliance boundaries.

We Protect

- Nonprofit compliance and public trust
- Accurate reporting and documentation
- Clear approvals and spending boundaries
- Integrity—no private benefit

We Avoid

- Cash handling and “side funds”
- Personal reimbursements without receipts
- Unapproved spending commitments
- Ambiguous money movement

- [ ] I understand all FBL-related spending must align with mission and nonprofit compliance boundaries.

- [ ] I understand there is no permitted personal benefit or “private inurement” from FBL funds or resources.

2. Handling Funds & Collections

Chapter Leaders must follow central leadership direction for any dues, fees, sponsorships, donations, or collections. Chapters may not create side accounts, cash reserves, or independent funding systems unless explicitly authorized.

- [ ] I will not create any chapter bank account, payment account, or side fund unless explicitly authorized by central leadership.

- [ ] I will not collect cash, checks, or payments “off platform” without written approval and a documented process.

- [ ] I understand all dues/fees/donations/sponsorships must be processed through approved FBL systems and recorded.

If your chapter currently handles money: stop and escalate immediately so the process can be corrected and documented.

3. Expenses, Commitments & Approvals

No one may commit FBL to a financial obligation without approval. “I already told the vendor yes” is not a process.

Allowed With Approval

- Venue deposits (if applicable)
- Chapter meeting materials
- Approved marketing collateral
- Approved tech/tools

Not Allowed

- Personal travel or meals as “chapter expenses”
- Gifts, donations, or political causes
- Cash payments without receipts
- Anything outside mission scope

- [ ] I will not commit FBL to expenses or vendor obligations without approval from central leadership.
- [ ] I understand reimbursements require receipts and must follow the approved process.
- [ ] I will never classify personal benefit items as chapter expenses.

4. Records, Receipts & Documentation

Documentation protects everyone. Every approved expense must be traceable from request → approval → receipt → record.

- [ ] I will maintain complete documentation for chapter-related spending (approval + receipt + purpose).
- [ ] I will not reimburse or request reimbursement without itemized receipts.
- [ ] I understand “lost receipts” or undocumented expenses may be denied to protect compliance.

5. Sponsorships, Donations & Partnerships

Sponsorships and donations can create reputational and compliance risk if not handled correctly. All sponsorship claims, “partners,” and donation messaging must be approved.

- [ ] I will not solicit, accept, or represent sponsorships/donations under FBL without central approval.
- [ ] I will not claim “official partnerships” without written approval and approved language.
- [ ] I understand all sponsorship/donation funds must be processed through approved FBL systems and recorded.

6. Escalation, Reviews & Audit Cooperation

If something looks unclear, inconsistent, or risky—escalate immediately. Chapters must cooperate with financial reviews.

- [ ] I will escalate financial concerns immediately (misuse, unclear spending, off-platform money handling).
- [ ] I will provide requested financial documentation promptly if central leadership conducts a review.
- [ ] I understand violations may result in corrective action, suspension, removal, and/or repayment obligations.

Simple rule: If it can’t be explained clearly with receipts and approvals, it shouldn’t happen.
